One-year Anniversary of Sharm El Sheikh, Kafr El Sheikh and the Royal Carriages Museums

This 31st of October marked the first anniversary of the inauguration of 3 museums in 3 different governorates on the same day by H.E. the President, via video conference from Sharm El- Sheikh. Work in the three museums had resumed after years of closure since 2011.

Sharm El-Sheikh Museum

It is the first museum in the coastal city of Sharm El-Sheikh. Work started in the museum in 2003 then stopped in 2011, and resumed in early 2018. The museum tells the story of the development of the Egyptian Civilization and how Egyptians dealt with their surrounding environment. The museum showcases 5200 archaeological artifacts and 10 of King Tutankhamun’s treasures. It provides an exceptional experience for its visitors and an opportunity to learn about the ancient Egyptian Civilization, and enjoy the picturesque Egyptian beaches.
Royal Carriages Museum

The museum narrates the history of royal carriages and vehicles, used for transportation and official ceremonies, in Egypt during the Modern Era. The museum displays 470 unique archaeological artifacts including: 40 significant royal carriages different in sizes and shapes, a collection of horses’ accessories, and outfits of staffs.

Kafr El-Sheikh Museum
